

Short bio

Dong Wu is Chief of Services Trade and Development Section, Trade and Commercial Diplomacy Branch, DITC. In that role, she leads the work on policy-oriented research and advice, in support of intergovernmental processes and technical cooperation. Dong has worked for 23 years in the social and economic fields with the UN. The focus of her work has been on innovation policies for sustainable development, and on gender and development.

Bruno Antunes is Economic Affairs Officer at the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development (UNCTAD). Applies trade, services, industrial policy analyses to promote sustainable and inclusive economic development. Focuses on services value-added and value chains, knowledge-intensive and infrastructure services, financial inclusion, and ICT-enabled trade.

Vincent Valentine: A UNCTAD transport specialist holding various roles including: 10 years as principal author of the annual Review of Maritime Transport (RMT); 3 years as RMT project coordinator; 5 years as Chief of Transport (ad-interim) and 4 years working on trade in services. Immediately prior to this he served in the Transport Division of UNESCAP. In the private sector he negotiated settlements for a leading maritime transport insurer (P&I Club) and as a Lloyd's of London broker. Later he became an educationalist in international maritime commercial practice during which time he was awarded a Ph.D. for his work on Port Efficiency.